Dear Sirs:

This is in regard to the Federal Commission proposal to weaken standards for "Made in USA" claims by manufacturers.

Under the new proposal "Made in the USA" with only 75 percent domestic labor + materials. Current rules require such goods to be "all or virtually all made" with domestic labor and materials.

I feel the current rules should be preserved. In the face of ever-increasing foreign imports in our marketplace, we need the "Made in the USA" label to guide us in the purchase of USA-made goods.
