

I do not support any efforts to limit consumer access to contact lens prescriptions. When my personal physician writes a prescription for any type of medication, he or she does not and can not restrict me as to where I get said prescription filled, so he or she should not be allowed to restrict me as to where i purchase my contact lens. Furthermore, I think that requiring a prescription for contact lens is foolish and capricious. As long as I know the size, fit and strength on my contact lens, I should be allowed to purchase them without any interference from my optometrist of the government.

T.C. Burns Sr.