Subject: Don't make him wait...

My husband is contact-lens wearer, and one who really has a hard time seeing if he doesn't have them in.

I have heard of the new FTC ruling that will allow him to have a copy of his contact lens prescription which is wonderful.

The part of the ruling that worries me is the fact that he may have to wait days after an examination before getting his contacts. My husband travels frequently and quite often doesn't have "days" to wait. We depend on expediency, both in getting an appointment and getting the contacts following it.

Please reconsider this aspect of the ruling as it will impact a great many contact lens wearers like my husband.

Sincerely,

Hallie Pfeiffer
