Dear FTC,

I wanted to let you know that I am deeply opposed to the proposed rule which could end up making me wait days for my lenses. This is taking many freedoms away from the consumer. We are not talking about hand guns here!

It is important that I, and others, be freely able to obtain their lenses quickly and easily. I often rely on next day service to purchase my contacts. I would like to see the government stop trying to micromanage small things like this and start concentrating on the more important issues we have in our country today. Thanks for listening.

Sincerely yours,

Mike Cain
