

From: Edie Crump
Posted At: Friday, May 14, 2004 4:35 PM
Conversation: Spyware Workshop - Comment, P044509
Posted To: spywareworkshop2004

Subject: Spyware Workshop - Comment, P044509

My children have accidentally installed spyware and adware programs by typing www addresses incorrectly and then clicking the standard ok.

If you are aware of the things these programs do, added to the shocking results, images and offers brought by these treacherous programs and companies, then I'm sure you would hate to explain to kids some of the items that pop up on the computer screens.

I have even had to erase my system and totally re-install my Operating System to rid myself of this SCUMWARE.

If we can make laws regarding the placements of certain products near schools, is there no way to block similar junk from popping up on my childrens computers?

Please help the people who want to use the internet for educational reasons as it was intended. People that want that kind of stuff know where to find it please help those who want to avoid that kind of stuff keep from having such nastiness shoved in our faces and down our throats by such foul companies.