Sirs:

I give no one the right to enter my home uninvited, certainly not to do so for the purposes of following me or observing my activities. Uninvited entry gives me the right to take any action necessary....

If I am followed about in public, that's called stalking, and is illegal for any purpose.

So I'm mystified how one can justify ad targeting based on illegally-gotten information.

Spyware is spyware, no matter how benignly some people would dress it.
